Cryoserver Version 10

Cryoserver

A new, even better version of Cryoserver

At Cryoserver, we're always working to fine-tune our solution for customers and end-users. So we listen to you to find out the features and functions you'd like to see. We then invest part of your subscription fee in R&D to make Cryoserver even better. The latest version, V10, is all about improving your ability to find that needle in the haystack – to retrieve whatever important, valuable email you need more quickly.

Find archived data quicker

Our search function was already quick to find that needle in the haystack you're looking for – the email containing essential information, details that could help you win a new client, or the evidence of who said what and when that could decide a legal case.
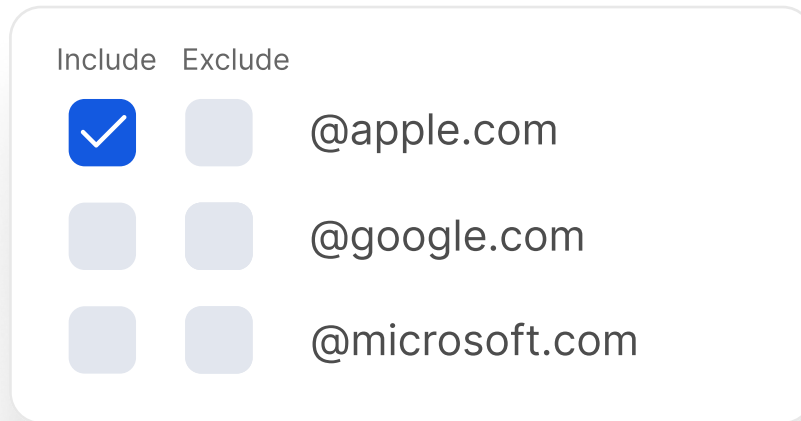

Now it does that with your Teams and Slack messages as well. Our intuitive search interfaces and Outlook integrations make searching easier. And V10 features help you find the email/message you need even quicker.

Investing in R&D

You might have noticed some archiving vendors end-of-lifeing their products. We're not like them. We're always working to fine-tune our solution for customers and end-users.
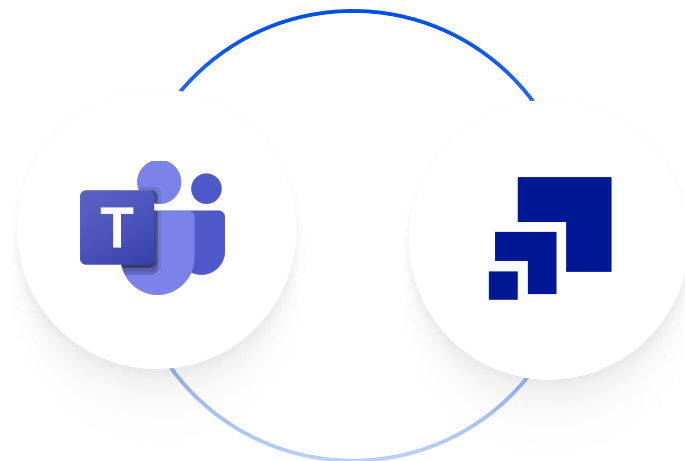

So we listen to you to find out the features and functions you'd like to see.

We then invest part of your subscription fee in R&D to make Cryoserver even better.

New Domain Name Filtering

If you get, say, 800 results in a broad search, you'll have filters to sort different types of domains – for example, gmail vs hotmail vs abc.com. There's a box you can tick to exclude certain results (e.g. all gmail addresses), reducing the results from, for example, 800 to 300.

New Teams Archiving

You'll have a single search panel for your email and Teams chats.

New Export Results To PDF With All Attachments

Get a packaged zip of the emails in a PDF combined with the attachments.

New Duplicate Search Results Hidden

If multiple recipients got the same email, your search results will display only the single email with all the addresses delivered to, combined, so you can save time by not seeing duplicate emails.

New Attachment Name in Results

Your search results now include an attachment's name. This helps you recognise the email you're looking for.

New Updated Language Files

Including German, French, Polish, Czech, Spanish, Italian, Dutch and Simplified Chinese.

New One Click Restore to a Dedicated Folder

You can now move them to a folder called "Restored from Cryoserver" into user mailboxes.

New Export your Results to PST

If you need to handover a collection of emails to a third-party law firm, this makes it easy.

New Better Integration With Google Workspace

We can import from mailboxes without knowing their password with the Google Service Account Support.

New Share Search Criteria With Another User

You can now share search criteria across your organisation, saving time and getting to the right results quicker.
